2025 session

25 July 2024–30 July 2025

Agenda item 18

Non-governmental organizations

Report of the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations on its 2025 resumed session

(New York, 19–23, 28 and 29 May and 5 June 2025)

Summary

At its 2025 resumed session, held from 19 to 23 May, on 28 and 29 May and on 5 June 2025, the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations had before it 614 applications for consultative status, including 356 applications deferred from earlier sessions. Of the non-governmental organizations submitting those applications, the Committee recommended 170 for consultative status, deferred 381 for further consideration at its regular session in 2026 and closed without prejudice consideration of 63 applications of non-governmental organizations that had failed to respond to queries by the deadline of two business days (48 hours) before the beginning of the Committee session. The Committee further deferred consideration of one request for acknowledgement of merger and two requests for reclassification of status. The Committee took note of eight requests for a change of name. It also had before it 555 quadrennial reports, of which it took note of 401. The Committee heard eight representatives of non-governmental organizations.

The present report contains seven draft decisions on matters calling for action by the Economic and Social Council.

By draft decision I, the Council would:

- (a) Grant consultative status to 170 non-governmental organizations;
- (b) Note that the Committee decided to take note of the change of name of eight non-governmental organizations;
- (c) Note that the Committee took note of 401 quadrennial reports, including new and deferred reports, submitted by non-governmental organizations;

(d) Close without prejudice consideration of the requests for consultative status made by 63 non-governmental organizations after the organizations had failed to respond to queries by the deadline of two business days (48 hours) before the beginning of the Committee session.

By draft decision II, the Council would suspend, for a period of one year, the consultative status of 204 organizations with outstanding quadrennial reports.

By draft decision III, the Council would decide to reinstate the consultative status of 76 organizations that had submitted their outstanding quadrennial reports.

By draft decision IV, the Council would decide to withdraw the consultative status of 239 organizations with continued outstanding quadrennial reports.

By draft decision V, the Council would decide to withdraw the consultative status of one organization, at the organization's request.

By draft decision VI, the Council would approve the dates and provisional agenda of the 2026 session of the Committee.

By draft decision VII, the Council would take note of the present report.

B. New quadrennial reports submitted by non-governmental organizations in consultative status

14. At its 22nd meeting, on 23 May, the Committee considered agenda item 4 (b), New quadrennial reports. It had before it notes by the Secretary-General containing 407 new quadrennial reports (E/C.2/2025/2/Add.5–10 and E/C.2/2025/CRP.49–74). The Committee took note of 394 of those reports (see chap. I, draft decision I, subpara. (c)). The Committee decided to defer consideration of the reports of the following 13 organizations:²

Association marocaine des droits humains (2019–2022)

Bridge to Türkiye

Imvrian Association

International Association for Religious Freedom (2019–2022)

International Dialogue for Environmental Action, Public Association (IDEA)

The Death Penalty Project, Limited

The Smile of the Child

Turkish Foundation for Combating Soil Erosion, for Reforestation and the Protection of Natural Habitats (TEMA Foundation)

Umut Foundation

Women’s International League for Peace and Freedom

C. Other related matters

Requests for a change of name

15. At its 22nd meeting, on 23 May, the Committee considered agenda item 6 (c), Other related matters. It had before it a memorandum by the Secretary-General containing new requests from NGOs concerning a change of name (E/C.2/2025/CRP.45). The Committee took note of the change of name of eight NGOs (see chap. I, draft decision I, subpara. (b)).

Request for withdrawal of consultative status

16. At the same meeting, the Committee took note of the request for withdrawal of consultative status of one organization, due to changes in its status, as set out in document E/C.2/2025/CRP.46 (see chap. I, draft decision V).

IV. Strengthening of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat

17. At its 14th meeting, on 19 May, the Committee jointly considered the following agenda items: agenda item 5, Strengthening of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch; agenda item 6, Review of the methods of work of the Committee: implementation of Council resolution 1996/31, including the process of accreditation of representatives of non-governmental organizations, and Council decision 1995/304; and agenda item 8, General voluntary trust fund in support of the United Nations Non-Governmental Organizations Informal Regional Network. It also heard an oral report by the Secretariat.

² All newly deferred quadrennial reports were for the period 2020–2023, except where otherwise indicated.

18. The Chief of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch noted that, over the past several years, applications for consultative status had remained consistently near 1,000 annually, which was five times the volume received a decade previously. He stressed that such remarkable growth had significantly expanded the operational demands on the Branch. However, the staffing and resources of the Branch had remained unchanged for more than a decade. The liquidity constraints had affected the Branch's ability to process and present applications for consultative status in a timely manner, which had resulted in a significant backlog. He conveyed his deep concern over continued delays in efficient support for the Committee and for NGOs, such as the review of quadrennial reports, the processing of increasingly high numbers of deferred applications, the designation procedures for accredited NGOs and the development of a new information and communications technology platform. He reiterated his appeal for continued support in securing the necessary resources that would enable the Branch to fully meet its responsibilities under Council resolution 1996/31.

V. Review of the methods of work of the Committee: implementation of Council resolution 1996/31, including the process of accreditation of representatives of non-governmental organizations, and Council decision 1995/304

19. At its 14th meeting, on 19 May, the Committee reviewed its methods of work.

20. On 20 May, the Department of Global Communications informed the Secretary of the Committee that, as from the 18th meeting, on 21 May, webcast services for the Committee would be discontinued unless a cost-recovery fee was paid for the remaining 12 meetings of the Committee. Following the engagement of the technical and substantive offices with the Department, the Department agreed to absorb the cost and provide the services for the remaining meetings, on an exceptional basis.

21. At its 17th meeting, on 20 May, the Committee authorized the Vice-Chair to contact the Under-Secretary-General for Global Communications to request that webcast services be provided for all future sessions of the Committee, as mandated by the Council. The Vice-Chair's letter was transmitted to the Office of the Under-Secretary-General on 28 May.

22. The representative of Algeria, with reference to agenda item 6 (a), Process of accreditation of representatives of non-governmental organizations, noted that applications from NGOs that were clearly not eligible for consultative status were sometimes submitted for review by the Committee. He proposed that the Secretariat not include those applications in the list for the Committee's consideration. For instance, one of the eligibility criteria was the organization's resources. According to paragraph 13 of Council resolution 1996/31, the basic resources of the organization should be derived in the main part from the organization's membership.

23. Regarding agenda item 6 (c), the same representative stated that there were sometimes duplicate responses in the paperless system. He asked the Secretariat to avoid such duplications because they artificially ballooned the number of answers and required additional time for review. He also asked about the rationale regarding the presentation of change-of-name requests and requested information on what such changes would entail in terms of the activities of the NGOs concerned, as notification of a change of name alone was not sufficient.

24. The Chief of the Branch stated that there had been a delay in making the documentation on requests for a change of name available in the paperless system, but that all related documents had been uploaded prior to the start of the session. With regard to the other proposals, he indicated that these might be taken up during the discussions of the informal working group.

25. At the 25th meeting, on 29 May, the representative of India asked that the following suggestions be considered by the informal working group in order to organize the question-and-answer sessions with NGOs more efficiently: (a) reducing the number of question-and-answer sessions to three from the present five in view of the liquidity crisis and to ensure better time management; and (b) encouraging only those NGOs that submitted their responses in writing to participate in the question-and-answer sessions for a second time. He also asked whether the Secretariat could present, in alphabetical order, the compilation of applications for consultative status deferred from previous sessions of the Committee from NGOs that had not responded to the previous three reminders by the deadline of two business days (48 hours) before the beginning of the session. The Vice-Chair noted that he hoped to convene the informal working group to address those issues soon, as well as the issues related to working methods that had been raised by other Committee members.

VI. Consideration of special reports and complaints by Member States

26. At its 14th and 22nd meetings, on 19 and 23 May, the Committee considered agenda item 7, Special reports. The representative of Azerbaijan gave a briefing to the Committee on the activities of the organization Christian Solidarity International (CSI). At the same meeting, the Committee decided to transmit the statement by Azerbaijan to the NGO.

27. At its 22nd and 24th meetings, on 23 and 28 May, the Committee heard briefings by the representative of Egypt on the legal status of the International Organisation for Development and Environment, which had been recommended for consultative status at the 14th meeting on 19 May. The Committee decided to seek clarification from the NGO. At its 24th meeting, the Committee decided to reconsider the application by that NGO, on an exceptional basis, under rule 57 of the rules of procedure of the Council. The NGO was requested to finalize its reregistration with the Egyptian authorities.

VII. Provisional agenda and documentation of the 2026 session of the Committee

28. At its 26th meeting, on 5 June, the Committee considered agenda item 9, Provisional agenda and documentation of the 2026 session of the Committee, and had before it the draft provisional agenda of its 2026 session (E/C.2/2025/L.1).

29. At the same meeting, the Committee decided to recommend to the Council the following dates for the sessions in 2026: a regular session, from 26 to 30 January, from 4 to 6 February and on 20 February, and a resumed session, from 18 to 22 May, on 28 and 29 May and on 5 June.

VIII. Organization of the session

A. Opening and duration of the session

30. The Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations held its 2025 resumed session from 19 to 23 May, on 28 and 29 May and on 5 June. The Committee held 13 meetings.

31. The session was opened by the Vice-Chair of the 2025 session. In his opening remarks, the Vice-Chair stated that the Committee served as an important gateway for NGOs to engage with and contribute to the work of the United Nations. By recommending the granting of consultative status to NGOs, the Committee facilitated their access to and participation in the Council and its subsidiary bodies, as well as access to and participation in many United Nations meetings. He said that, in accordance with Council decision 2024/342, entitled “Improving the work of the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations”, the Secretariat would no longer compile lists indicating the division of applicants into “list 1” or “list 2” in advance of the sessions of the Committee, but that the Committee would review only the “South” and “North” lists. It had also been decided that sessions would be suspended for two working days between the fifth and sixth working days and that a deadline would be established for applicant responses to be received by the Secretariat and made available to the Committee by 5 p.m. on the day before the sixth working day. He reminded delegations of his communication dated 10 April 2025, in which he had relayed to the Committee that, due to the liquidity crisis, and as communicated by the Chef de Cabinet, all author departments would be asked to reduce the length of their reports by 10 per cent as compared with the word count of the previous year’s report. The required reduction in the length of the report on the resumed session would therefore have an impact on both the procedural and substantive parts of the report. He emphasized that, by working together in a spirit of consensus, the Committee would be able to hold a successful and productive session.

32. The representative of India extended his delegation’s compliments to the Branch for the successful completion of the regular session in January and February 2025, during which consultative status had been granted to 119 new NGOs and to 29 NGOs whose applications had been previously deferred. He underscored that the session was being held in a professional and transparent manner and that it was noteworthy that the Branch had, for the first time, shared a list of NGOs that had expressed their interest in attending the proceedings. He emphasized that, as in the past, his delegation would extend its full support to the Branch and work with Committee colleagues to ensure that the resumed session concluded successfully and satisfactorily. He added that India had an active, vibrant and pluralistic civil society and that his delegation supported an inclusive approach with regard to the participation of civil society in the relevant work of the United Nations and fully recognized the critical role of the Committee as an intergovernmental specialized body under the Council. The guidelines and processes for assessing the credibility of all applications and seeking clarifications to enable it to make a well-considered recommendation to the Council were well outlined in resolution 1996/31. He stressed that his delegation was confident that, during the current session, the Committee would be able to uphold to the fullest the intergovernmental nature of the decisions it would take. His delegation would continue to support the established procedures and practices of the Committee and was committed to working with other delegations towards achieving this aim.

33. The representative of Türkiye noted that the significant role and influence of civil society was growing. He stressed that NGOs played important supporting functions in local, national, regional and global development processes. The participation of civil society helped to promote local ownership, civic engagement and accountability, and the Committee played a crucial role in facilitating and improving cooperation between the United Nations and civil society, which contributed to the sustainability and effectiveness of United Nations efforts in related areas of work. He expressed appreciation for the contributions of the NGOs in consultative status to the work of the United Nations. He added that, as long as the objectives and activities of those NGOs were in line with the principles and purposes of the Charter of the United Nations and Council resolution 1996/31, Türkiye would continue to support the active participation of NGOs in the work of the Council and its subsidiary bodies, as well as in international conferences organized by the United Nations. Türkiye would also continue to support the granting of consultative status in conformity with the purposes and principles of the Charter, as well as the framework set out under resolution 1996/31, which provided the Committee with a clear mandate and served as a solid basis for the Committee to conduct its work. He reiterated that the role and competence of the Committee should not be undermined as the primary specialized United Nations body for considering applications for consultative status. The Committee should be able to continue its regular working method of reviewing each application on a case-by-case basis. He stressed that bypassing the Committee's usual review process in order to selectively grant certain organizations consultative status was counterproductive and against the mandate given to the Committee by the Council. The review of applications and quadrennial reports was critical to ensure the compliance of NGOs with the principles and purposes of the Charter and resolution 1996/31. He underscored that one important task of the Committee was to implement the provisions of resolution 1996/31 and to monitor the consultative relationship with the Council. He reiterated the continued commitment of Türkiye to the valuable work of the Committee.

34. The representative of China thanked the Chair and the Branch for their efforts in preparing for the session and assured the Committee that China would work actively and constructively with all parties to finish the consideration of all the agenda items and to ensure the success of the session. She noted that NGOs played an important role in assisting the work of the United Nations. She emphasized that the Committee was the main body for the consideration of the consultative relationship between NGOs and the Council. As a responsible member of the Committee, following the principles of professionalism, impartiality and objectivity, China had carefully considered every application for consultative status, with a view to supporting the orderly participation of eligible NGOs in the work of the United Nations. She stated that, during the 2025 session, the Committee had efficiently processed a large number of applications and quadrennial reports and successfully completed the consideration of the agenda items, which demonstrated the effectiveness of the current working methods of the Committee. She stressed that, although China supported improving the Committee's working methods, the aim should not be to lower the standards for NGOs applying for status, but rather to make the deliberations more efficient and professional. She added that, no matter how the working methods were adjusted, neither the principle of decision-making by consensus, nor the Committee's authority in granting consultative status, should be changed. She underscored that, in recent years, a certain member of the Committee had repeatedly posed difficult questions to organizations from China and other developing countries and had even attacked other members in the name of supporting NGOs. The representative stressed that that was a blatant double standard and politicization. She added that, on the one hand, the member concerned, ignoring the active and thorough responses already given by Chinese organizations, had repeatedly asked the same questions and had even made preconceived assumptions about the nature of the organizations in question. On the other hand, the same member had pushed for consultative status to be granted to some organizations on the basis of that member's own preferences. China firmly opposed that practice and advised the country concerned to be more professional and dedicated, to earnestly fulfil its obligations as a member of the Committee and to carry out the work objectively and impartially. She emphasized that, as 2025 marked the eightieth anniversary of the United Nations, many processes were ongoing and, to ensure the completion of the consideration of the agenda items, China did not propose having discussions on working methods in the informal working group in the short term. She stated that subsequent discussions and adjustments to the working methods of the Committee should be based on consensus among all members and should be carried out in strict compliance with the relevant rules and regulations of the United Nations, with due regard for operational realities and the concerns of organizations from developing countries, in order to ensure the authority of the Committee and the effectiveness of its work. She said China appreciated the efforts of the Branch to actively implement its mandate and coordinate the work of the Committee, in spite of many difficulties. She expressed hope that all members of the Committee would rise above political interference and enhance the efficiency of the Committee's work to complete the deliberations at the resumed session, create better conditions for the participation of NGOs in the activities of the United Nations and contribute to upholding the authority of the Committee and the central role of the United Nations.

35. The representative of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland stated that, as the Committee continued its important work during the session, the United Kingdom remained committed to the effective, fair and transparent functioning of the Committee. Through that commitment, the United Kingdom was championing civil society participation in the United Nations. She emphasized that civil society played a critical role in tackling global issues, from climate change to conflicts, while holding those in power to account. With civil society's vital perspectives and evidence, more informed decisions could be made to achieve a more equitable and just future. She underscored, however, that politicized deferrals and repeated questions continued to obstruct civil society access to the United Nations. That situation had led to ever-worsening backlogs and bureaucratic delays, even when questions had been answered transparently and in detail, which had compounded pressures within the existing liquidity crisis. She noted that, during the session, the Committee would review 356 deferred applications, alongside 258 new applications. The pattern of arbitrary blocking over such a sustained period was in contradiction to the spirit of Council resolution 1996/31, which was aimed at fostering meaningful collaboration between NGOs and States Members of the United Nations. The United Kingdom intended to seek the approval of applications from all legitimate NGOs. Scrutiny of NGOs would be only on the following categories, in line with resolution 1996/31: (a) the NGO must exist and be currently active; (b) the NGO must be independent of government, with the majority of positions filled by individuals without government connection; (c) the NGO must not cause harm to people, property or the environment; and (d) the NGO and its staff must adhere to the Charter of the United Nations, in that they must not engage in politically motivated attacks against Member States or verifiably benefit from the proceeds of criminal activity. She emphasized that the United Kingdom encouraged all Committee members to use a fair and objective review process, as such a commitment would foster more meaningful civil society engagement at the United Nations while improving the efficiency of the Committee's work. The United Kingdom recognized that the continued reform of the Committee's methods was necessary, and it remained supportive of efforts to achieve such reform, including within the informal working group. She urged all members of the Committee to promote and facilitate a safe and welcoming space for civil society participation at the United Nations.

36. The representative of Israel stated that civil society played an important role in the international arena. She underscored that the contributions of NGOs enriched the discussions, provided important data and enabled voices from across the globe to be heard. She said that the discussions helped to better understand the needs of various groups, gave a voice to those unheard and enabled Member States to reach better outcomes, acknowledging global and local trends. She emphasized that it was through the lenses of NGOs that challenges at hand could be better understood and that adequate responses were provided to tackle them. She underscored that, through its membership in the Committee, Israel strove to create an inclusive space for NGOs at the United Nations. Israel collaborated with various NGOs on a regular basis in the context of United Nations activities in many focus areas, including by co-sponsoring side events, receiving expert input and conducting research. She stressed that the NGO arena must be a space for constructive action and not a platform for those who exploited that openness to spread incitement, promote division or support violence in any form. Regarding the need to reduce the length of the report by 10 per cent, she asked whether that would be done with due consideration for the fact that the report was fairly technical and needed to reflect the complete list of NGOs under discussion. She also asked how the substance of the deliberations would be reflected in the report without reducing its technical content.

37. The representative of Cuba stated that his country was convinced of the utility and benefits of the participation of civil society in the work of the United Nations. He underscored that, for decades, thousands of NGOs from the Global South, including many from Cuba, had made significant contributions to the work of the United Nations, in line with procedures and established practices, including consultative status with the Council. Cuba was convinced of the cardinal importance of the Committee in the careful analysis of requests for consultative status. He added that Cuba was committed to continuing its participation in the Committee and that it was important for NGOs to contribute their expertise from the field so that they could enrich the intergovernmental discussions in the context of the United Nations. He stressed that it was also important that the participation of NGOs should not contribute to the politicization of the work of the Organization. As a member of the Committee, Cuba invited NGOs that were interested in requesting consultative status, in line with the provisions of Council resolution 1996/31, to continue making their valuable contributions to the work of the United Nations. He stated that Cuba attached great importance to the informal working group on working methods. However, for small delegations, attending meetings of the working group could be a challenge if they were convened in parallel with other United Nations meetings. In that regard, he asked whether the Secretariat, when convening the informal working group, could take into account other processes of the Council and its subsidiary bodies in order to avoid overlapping meetings.

38. The representative of China asked whether the 10 per cent reduction in the length of the report was as compared with the report of the regular session or the resumed session. He also asked how quickly NGO responses to questions posed by Committee members would be uploaded to the paperless system. The Vice-Chair clarified that the reduction in the length of the report of the current session was based on the word count of the report on the 2024 resumed session. The Chief of the Branch explained that responses by NGOs would be uploaded to the paperless system as quickly as possible in order to allow them to be recorded by the deadline of 27 May at 3 p.m.

39. In his closing remarks at the 25th meeting, on 29 May 2025, the Vice-Chair highlighted the good-spirited and constructive tone of discussions during the session, through which the Committee had reaffirmed its shared commitment to improving the efficiency and fairness of its work. The session marked a significant undertaking, during which the Committee had recommended a total of 170 organizations for consultative status, representing 31 per cent of all applications under review. That included 57 per cent of new applications and 8 per cent of previously deferred applications. He expressed his appreciation to the NGOs that had submitted timely written responses to the Committee's questions and to those that had participated in person during the interactive question-and-answer sessions, saying that their candid and constructive engagement had been vital to the work of the Committee. He added that NGOs continued to play a vital role in the work of the United Nations, helping to amplify the voices of marginalized communities and bringing valuable expertise and perspectives to the Committee's deliberations. He stressed that, despite the continuing liquidity crisis and the reduction in the number of meetings, the Committee had remained productive and constructive by reviewing more new applications during the session than in previous ones. He thanked the members of the Committee by saying that such an achievement reflected the full commitment and collaborative spirit of all members. He also commended the Branch and the Secretariat for their exceptional professionalism and dedication, citing their tireless efforts in managing the increased volume of applications and quadrennial reports and in supporting both members of the Committee and NGOs, which were instrumental in facilitating the Committee's work. He raised concerns regarding the deepening resource constraints facing the Branch. He stressed that, as the Chief of the Branch had emphasized in his opening remarks, those constraints posed significant risks to the Branch's ability to fulfil its responsibilities under Council resolution 1996/31. Without full support, the delivery and efficiency of future sessions could be adversely affected. He encouraged all regional groups to consider stepping forward to ensure a fully constituted Bureau ahead of the next session. As the informal working group began discussions on further refining the Committee's working methods, he was confident that even greater improvements could be achieved. He announced that he would soon suggest several dates, carefully chosen to avoid overlap with other Committee sessions, for an initial meeting of the working group. He thanked Committee members for their strong support, collaboration and commitment.

B. Attendance

40. The session was attended by 18 members of the Committee. Observers for other States Members of the United Nations, observers for non-member States and representatives of organizations of the United Nations system and NGOs also attended. The list of participants will be issued in document E/C.2/2025/INF/2.

41. At its 2025 resumed session, the Committee heard eight representatives of NGOs, who were given the opportunity to respond to questions raised by the Committee.

C. Election of officers

42. No Bureau members were elected during the resumed session.

D. Agenda

43. The agenda of the 2025 regular and resumed sessions is contained in document E/C.2/2025/1/Rev.2.

IX. Adoption of the report of the Committee on its 2025 resumed session

44. At its 25th meeting on 29 May, the Committee took note of the draft report and authorized the Vice-Chair to finalize the report with the support of the Secretariat and in consultation with the members of the Committee, as appropriate, with a view to its submission to the Council for appropriate action.

45. At its 26th meeting on 5 June, the Committee adopted the present report.
